Dear Trijya Bhardwaj,

We are pleased to inform you that you have received an updated scholarship to support your admission to the Master of Science in Architecture-Engineering-Construction Management (MSAECM) program at Carnegie Mellon Architecture, beginning August 2024. On behalf of the committee, congratulations on being selected from an exceptional pool of highly-qualified applicants. We are excited to welcome you to Pittsburgh, a vibrant post-industrial city and to Carnegie Mellon Architecture. The school fosters deep immersion in the discipline of architecture, intensified by the broader Carnegie Mellon culture of interdisciplinary innovation and creative inquiry. The graduate school is committed to preparing our students to address the pressing challenges of our time, mainly:

- Climate change and its impending environmental and social problems and how architecture can support living in the Anthropocene;
- Artificial intelligence and the development of smart buildings and cities and how architecture can support human agency and living in a posthuman society;
- Social justice and the need for greater equity and inclusion of race, gender, and intersectionality in our politics and communities and how architecture can support cultural and social diversity.

Financial Overview

We are pleased to inform you that the program's admissions committee has decided to offer you an Architecture Merit Scholarship of $6,000 per academic year of the program to offset the cost of tuition. The cost of full-time tuition for the MSAECM program in the 2024-2025 Academic Year (Fall & Spring semesters) will be $41,000. With the Merit Scholarship, your net tuition for 2024-2025 will be $35,000. Tuition rates for the 2025-2026 Academic Year are subject to change and will not be determined until March 2025. Please expect that they will be equal to or greater than the per-semester cost of the 2024-2025 Academic Year rate.

Additional support can be obtained through paid Graduate Teaching and Research Assistantships, to which all graduate students may apply. These are usually arranged once the student arrives on campus and are up to $1,000 per semester. Visit Carnegie Mellon's Student Financial Services webpage to review the overall cost of attendance in addition to the tuition listed above and for additional consumer information.

Program Details

The Master of Science in Architecture-Engineering-Construction Management (MSAECM) program is jointly offered by the School of Architecture and the Department of Civil & Environmental Engineering (CEE) at Carnegie Mellon University. The MSAECM degree program focuses on the integration of design and technology, particularly advanced information systems, as a means of both improving building performance and enhancing environmental sustainability. Students will work with the track chair to create a program of study that reflects each student's background and career goals by taking a mixture of appropriate prerequisites; core courses; "selectives" in Sustainability Assessment, Management, Computational Skills, and Quantitative Modeling; and approved electives. Carnegie Mellon University's MSAECM program is designated as a STEM-eligible program.

The 16-month MSAECM program requires a minimum of 120 units of approved coursework (including a required summer internship) with a minimum residency of three (3) academic semesters at full-time status (minimum of 36 units per semester).

MSAECM students will have the opportunity to learn from a diverse and innovative group of faculty within the School of Architecture. Your faculty track chair advisor will be Joshua D. Lee (jdlee2@andrew.cmu.edu). Do not hesitate to contact your track chair by email if you have questions regarding academic aspects of the program. Additionally, our Director of Recruitment & Enrollment, Alexis McCune Secosky (amccune@andrew.cmu.edu) will gladly address administrative questions about the program, the School of Architecture, and Carnegie Mellon University.

All incoming Master of Science in Architecture-Engineering-Construction Management students are not required but have the option to complete a free online course, Digital Skills Workshops (DSW), to establish a baseline of digital design skills expected at the Graduate Program. This fully remote course will run this summer prior to the academic semester with an anticipated time commitment of 5 hours/week. You are encouraged to consult directly with your track chair advisor to determine if the DSW will be helpful for your individual course of study. Applicants who accept this admission offer will receive more details about DSW with incoming Carnegie Mellon Architecture Graduate Program student enrollment information to be sent in May.

Enrollment Information

We have already received your $500 enrollment deposit. To accept this updated offer of admission, please sign the Decision Form (page 3) and email it to Alexis McCune Secosky (amccune@andrew.cmu.edu) at your earliest convenience.

Join Us!

Please join us in the MSAECM program as we collectively work to address the pressing challenges of Climate change, Artificial intelligence, and Social justice in an interdisciplinary community of scholars and designers.

We look forward to welcoming you to Pittsburgh, Carnegie Mellon University, and the School of Architecture's Master of Science in Architecture-Engineering-Construction Management program.
